A. The Australian Psychological Society Limited ("APS") is the publisher of the abstracts and all conference materials produced as a result of the 2018 APS College of Clinical Neuropsychologists Conference.

B. Prior to confirming your acceptance as a presenter at the Conference or a contributor to the Conference materials, the APS requests that you grant it the licence and permissions set out below.

C. Please note that you will retain copyright ownership in your abstract and in the written notes or text of your presentation which will be acknowledged by the APS in any publication of your work. In addition, you also retain the moral rights you are entitled to as the author of the abstract and your presentation materials.

1. In consideration for the publication of your abstract and presentation materials (including but not limited to any audio or video recording made of your presentation):

   a) You agree that the APS may record your presentation and that, subject to the licence you grant to the APS in this agreement, the APS will own the copyright of the recorded form of the work; and

   b) You hereby grant to the APS:

      (i) a non-exclusive and royalty fee-free licence to publish, reproduce, distribute, display and store your presentation worldwide in all forms (including on the website of the APS) and in formats and media now known or as may be developed in the future, including print, electronic and digital forms. For the avoidance of doubt, electronic and digital forms shall include, but not be limited to databases, CD-ROM and in forms accessible via electronic and digital networks and wireless transmission and communications systems; and

      (ii) the exclusive right to retain any nominal fees the APS may reasonably charge in its discretion to defray or offset any costs resulting from the activities referred to in clause 1.b(1) above including the downloading of the abstracts from the APS websites, as collected and distributed by the Copyright Agency Limited (CAL).

2. Unless agreed otherwise with the APS, you give permission for a copy of any slides or handouts of your presentation to be made available online to all Conference delegates following the Conference.

3. You warrant that to the best of your knowledge and after making all reasonable inquiries,

   a) the abstract and any presentation materials are your original work, and do not infringe the intellectual property rights of any other person or entity and cannot be construed as plagiarizing any other published work;

   b) the abstract and any presentation materials have not been published or substantially published previously in the exact format you intend to present again;

   c) the abstract and any presentation materials contain no statement that is abusive, defamatory, libellous, obscene, fraudulent nor, in anyway, infringes the rights of others or is, in any other way, unlawful or a violation of applicable laws;
d) wherever possible and appropriate, any patient, client or participant in any research or clinical experiment or study who is mentioned in the abstract and any presentation material has given their specific consent to the inclusion of material pertaining to them, and/or that they acknowledge and agree that they cannot be identified in the abstract and any presentation materials and that you will not identify them in anyway; and

e) if the research and/or presentation was prepared jointly with other authors, you have been authorised by all co-authors to sign this agreement on their behalf, and to agree, on their behalf, to the order of names in the publication of the abstract and any presentation materials and you will notify the APS (in writing) of the names of any such co-authors.

4. You agree to indemnify and keep the APS indemnified in full against all loss, damages, injury, costs and expenses (including legal and other professional fees and expenses) awarded against or incurred or paid by the APS as a result of your breach of the warranties given in this agreement.

5. You agree that this agreement:

   a) is governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of Victoria and that you will irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction of the Courts of Victoria; and
   b) may only be amended by a document signed by you and the APS.

6. You acknowledge and agree that the APS reserves the right:

   a) to make such editorial changes to the presentation materials (including any audio/video recording) as may be necessary to make them suitable for publication, or as considered reasonably necessary to avoid infringing third party rights or applicable laws and that it may contact you for clarification or additional information in order to facilitate this process; and
   b) not to proceed with publication of some or all of the presentations delivered at the Conference for whatever reason in its discretion.
